

"It was mostly one-on-one help and it was easy to learn. Loved the classes, they made math easy."
Ryan, 10th grade

Back-to-School Skills Review Camp Math, Reading & Writing

"I enjoyed the positive attitudes of the teachers. I also liked knowing that my son's mind had been refreshed and his confidence highlighted. Thanks!"
Laura, mother

Description: Research shows that many students lose almost 3 months of grade level equivalency in school related concepts over the summer months. Students who lose ground over the summer have a difficult time catching up during the following school year. The primary focus of the Back-to-School Skills Review Camp is to refresh students' math, reading, and writing skills, and reinforce previously taught concepts to get them up to speed before the start of the new academic year. In math the camp offers an array of enrichment opportunities including foundation drills, conceptual exercises, and practice of key operations and applications with an emphasis on both speed and accuracy. In reading the focus is on fluency and comprehension. In writing, we review the important steps of the writing process, practice both paragraph and essay writing, and proper grammar. Various multi-sensory methods are used to address the needs of diverse learning styles. Small group format allows opportunity for interaction between the teacher and each student. Groups are formed based on ability levels and a pretest. Therefore all students, whether they are below grade level, at grade level, or above grade level would benefit from the Skills Review Camp.
